

*The extent to which the mind can influence the subtle
Realms of energy which speak through numerous aspects
Of our being, igniting the great spark that dwells within
Which sheds light upon the hidden aspect of our nature
That ever so rarely experiences the bright light of day:
As the veiled aspects of our nature seldom reveal
The authentic quality of our inner-most being
Although each of us yearn to reconcile the splintered
Aspects of our true nature, sometimes the pursuit
Proves too difficult for those with an impatient mind
The inability to sit with thoughts of an uncomfortable
Nature preventing one from ever seeing the world
As it is, free from the artificial construct of ego
That distorts the timeless beauty of mother earth.*
